- * * * From allusions which occur in the text, the designer and writer of this book appears to have been an English military adventurer who had passed most of his life abroad in the Netherlands, Germany, and Italy, probably in the Spanish or Imperial service. He mentions twice or thrice his conversations with Hans Gering, an officer of the Duke of Parma, on the subject of military engines. On the leaf numbered 69 there is a Printing-press which the author says he designed, primarily in consequence of the extortionate charges of the professional typographers. No. 70 is another printing-press of greater size and power. No. 71 is a press for the printing of engraved plates. The text is addressed to "Your Honour" frequently, but the first leaf, which probably contained a dedication with the names, is lost.

Eighteen stanzas of four verses each; against the second stanza is a marginal reference: "See Ossian's Poem of Carriethura," and against the eighth: See "Johnson's Tour to the Hebrides"; the greater portion of the last page is filled with "The Prose Story of the Whistle is this," &c. on four quarto pages, the whole in BURNS' AUTOGRAPH

* * This Manuscript was sent to the Duke of Queensberry, with the following Autograph Letter, signed and dated Ellisland, 24th Sept. 1791: "My Lord Duke. Will Your Grace pardon this approach in a poor Poet who perhaps intrudes on your converse with Princes to present you—All he has to offer—his best Ballad; and to beg—All he has to ask of you—Your gracious acceptance of it.... and as I never crouch to any man but the man I have wronged, nor even to him except he forgives me, I will approach his Grace with tolerable upright confidence that even were I & my ballad poorer stuff than we are, the Duke of Queensberry's polite affability would make me welcome."

Both the manuscript and letter are in perfect condition.

- 70 WYCLIFFE (JOHN) Part of a Bible in the English version, Manuscript of the early 15th century. The fragment contains: Ezekiel, Daniel, The Twelve Minor Prophets, and part (Chapters I-IX, verse 39) of I Maccabees. Much of the text, especially in Ezekiel, is very curiously abridged by the omission of whole passages. Thus the MS. begins (modernised): "And it is done, in the 13th year in the 4th month, in the 5th day of the month, when I was in the middle of captives besides the flouds of Chobar, heavens were opened and

I sees visions of God, &c." After the "&c." three verses are omitted and it goes on: "And of the middle of it a likeness of four beasts," and after four lines another "&c." and the next eight verses are omitted. Ezekiel is consequently reduced to a very small compass. Daniel is much fuller, but some of the other prophets are very much condensed. The text varies between the two versions as given by Forshall and Madden in their edition of the Wycliffe Bible. For the most part it agrees with the first. The size of the volume is unusually small, though the writing is of a fairly large size. It is probable that the omissions were made in order to reduce the bulk to a convenient pocket size of the many various colours used, and the brilliancy of the gilding, all combine in stamping the MS. as the work of a first-rate artist of the period. THE MINIATURES REPRESENT THE FOLLOWING SUBJECTS: (1) The Annunciation, a fine interior, the initial miniature in the opposite border representing the Salutation; (2) The Nativity, a landscape, a man riding a curious grotesque in the margin; (3) The Circumcision; (4) Offerings of the Magi (one a black), singular animal grotesques in margin; (5) Flight into Egypt, birds in margin; (6) Christ teaching in the temple, hairy man in margin; (7) Assumption of the Virgin, grotesques in margin; (8) Coronation of the Virgin; (9) The Crucifixion, pelican in margin; (10) The Last Supper, curious grotesque in margin; (11) The Betrayal, nude figure in margin; (12) Christ before the High Priest, a double interior; (13) Christ before Pilate, double interior; (14) Christ crowned with thorns and mocked, double interior; (15) Christ bearing his cross, singular grotesque in margin; (16) The Crucifixion, nude figure in margin; (17) The Entombment; (18) The Deity and the Dead Christ; (19) Pentecost, a fine interior, monkey in margin; (20) Sacrifice of the Mass with the Instruments of the Passion; (21) Christ on the Judgment Seat, a different border from the rest, consisting of natural flowers, birds and insects, on a yellow ground; (22) Christ releasing Spirits from Hades.

* * * Father Gasquet, the expert, to whom this Manuscript was shown, said that he had never come across any early Bible the text of which was abridged in the peculiar manner seen in this specimen. The translation is that commonly called the "Wycliffe" or "Lollard" Bible; but upon this point there is a controversy, as some authorities believe the translation to have been originally made by Roman Catholics and afterwards adopted by the Lollards.

72 HORÆ BEATÆ MARIÆ VIRGINIS cum Calendario; RICHLY ILLU-MINATED MANUSCRIPT ON PURE VELLUM (130 ll. $7\frac{1}{2}$ by $3\frac{3}{4}$ in.) written in very neat roman letters, long lines, 29 to a full page; WITH 17 FULL-PAGE MINIATURES WITHIN ARCHITECTURAL BORDERS, 3 smaller ones, and many smaller ornamental initials and numerous decorative details, crimson velvet, g. e. narrow 8vo. Early XVth CENT.

* * * A REMARKABLY FINE MANUSCRIPT done in France by NICOLAS ROSEX called NICOLAS DE MODENA. The Calendar is written alternately in red, gold and blue, and occupies the first 6 pages. The large miniatures represent: (1) St. John the Evangelist; (2) The Betrayal by Judas; (3) The Annunciation; (4) The Visit of St.
Elizabeth; (5) The Women, St. John and others at the Foot of the Cross; (6) The Descent of the Holy Spirit; (7) The Meeting of Joachim and Hannah at the Golden Gate; (8) The Birth of Jesus Christ; (9) The Annunciation to the Shepherds; (10) The Adoration of the Wise Men; (11) The Presentation of the Infant Christ in the Temple; (12) The Flight into Egypt; (13) The Coronation of the Virgin; (14) David slaying Goliath; (15) Job; (16) The Resurrection of Lazarus; (17) The Holy Trinity.

Each of these miniatures is placed in a framing of various ornaments, fanciful architectural designs interspersed with figures of men, animals, satyrs, children playing, emblems of war and the chase, angels, dolphins, &c. The 3 small miniatures represent St. Luke, St. Matthew, and St. Mark.

At the base of the framework of the first miniature representing St. John the Evangelist is a monogram of the letters N. O. in which is a little flower-pot (which can be seen in the reproduction). This was the mark used by NICHOLAS ROSEX called NICHOLAS OF MODENA, the celebrated engraver (Brulliot, Monogrammes—Bartsch, Peintre-Graveur).

The artist shows in this Manuscript a great talent for composition, a perfect knowledge of drawing, a complete understanding of perspective and incomparable delicacy of touch surpassing his engravings. All these qualities place him among the superior artists of his day and prove him a most brilliant colourist. He was the forerunner of Geoffrey Tory. The fact that the French saints are included in the Calendar tends to show that the manuscript was done for someone of that nationality. Nicholas de Modena must have worked for the principal French printers and booksellers of his time, as we find the same ornaments in the framings of the following books: "Epistle of St. Jerome," Guillaume Eustache, 1520, "Histoire de Thucydide," Badius, 1527, &c.

THIS VALUABLE MANUSCRIPT is in the very finest state of preservation. [SEE PLATES].
